What is this type of insurance?

Construction and installation insurance is a type of property insurance that provides cover for buildings during construction and for tools, machinery and equipment used in construction projects. The policy can also be extended to cover other adjacent properties belonging to the client if these require additional protection during the construction works. The construction project itself can be insured on a fixed-term basis for the duration of the works, or either a portion of turnover or the entire turnover from construction activity can be insured on an annual basis. The cover provided for construction projects complies with the general conditions for building contracts (YSE 1998).

Subcontractors and side contractors are also covered by annual insurance policies, but there is a compensation ceiling of 30% of the value of the main contract in respect of their works.
- ✓ Construction tools and equipment are insured under 4 categories: barracks and site facilities, own tools and equipment, rented tools and equipment, tools owned by employees. Own sum insured is needed for each chosen category.
